

Traditional business models are being disrupted as connectivity, networks and the sharing economy impact all industries – retail, transport, energy and banking to name a few. Loftus Peak invests to generate returns from these major secular shifts. The Fund's geographical and sectoral diversification lowers the concentration risk inherent in the typical Australian portfolio with its heavy skew toward banks, resources and the Australian dollar.

Review and Performance

The Fund's poor performance in May was largely reversed in June as Presidents Trump and Xi signaled their intentions to restart trade negotiations, with the in-principle agreement that Trump will remove the restrictions placed on Huawei. What this meant is that in the lead-up to the G20 meeting at the end of June a number of our investee companies performed more strongly, after having been unable to sell to Huawei because of the ban. We were therefore able to deliver a net-of-fees return of +6.5% in June, bringing the year to +12.0%. Outperformance (relative to MSCI All Countries World Index in A$) was +1.2% for the month, and +0.5% for the year. The results should also be seen in the context of the performance history - since inception, two and a half years ago, the Fund has delivered +22.3% p.a. net-of-fees, with outperformance of +7.0% p.a.

Our five year gross-of-fees returns are +20.7% for The Loftus Peak Global Change Portfolio, the sister product of the Fund, with the same underlying investment objective and stock composition).

As we noted last month, tariffs are globally accepted as a bad tool, however if the US wins a better deal for American companies in China then this would be an important outcome (bearing in mind that Google's search engine and Facebook are blocked in China, for example).

¹ Net-of-fees performance is based on end-of-month redemption prices after the deduction of fees and expenses and the reinvestment of all distributions.

Investment return and the principal value fluctuate, so your units, when sold, may be worth more or less than the original cost. For further details, please refer to the Fund's product disclosure statement and reference guide.

Fund Contributors and Detractors

As we noted in the May performance review: "This mooted ban on sales to Huawei would be bad – if it happens". Qualcomm, Xilinx and Nvidia all rallied solidly toward the end of the month, as Xi himself requested the Huawei ban be lifted.
