COMMENTARY

The NWQ Fiduciary Fund (Fund) delivered a return of +3.21% in July. Since inception, the Fund has returned 5.51% p.a.

Global equity markets rallied in July against a backdrop of falling interest rates and bond yields. The current global environment presents investors with a mosaic of risks at the same time that we are witnessing record equity and bond market valuations. These risks range from the continuing and escalating disagreement between the US and China on trade, ongoing uncertainty around Brexit, the deceleration and likely recession in continental Europe, and the fissures opening up in emerging markets, most notably Argentina. Government largesse through fiscal stimulus and monetary policy that pushes rates ever lower can only continue to support valuations up to a point before fundamentals once again come to the fore. Given that fundamentals continue to deteriorate with falling earnings coupled with a fragile global macro environment ongoing recent volatility is likely to continue and could become more pronounced.

The Fund's performance in July was disproportionately driven by the Alpha managers (+2.73%) with the Beta managers also making a positive contribution (+0.56%). This was the Fund's largest monthly gain since July 2015 and the second largest since its inception in May 2013.
